

See Winter Through The Eyes of These 5 Fab Resorts

LESLIE HUGHES

While there is certainly no reason to complain about winter in the desert (hello perfect sweater weather temperatures), it does feel sometimes that we are missing out on how winter is done in other parts of the country.

To help you avoid that winter FOMO, we've rounded up five resorts that are definitely worth a visit during the winter months.

5. Kona Kai Resort & Spa | San Diego, California

Located on the tip of Shelter Island, staying at Kona Kai will provide you with a great, but different way to see San Diego's winter wonders.

However, you may not feel a need to leave the resort with all that it has to offer.

Kona Kai has recently completed its anticipated Coastal Revival Suites, as well as an Outdoor Terrace event space, and a completely new pool area with a California-vibe pool bar.

And its spa is not to be missed, especially with the package its currently offering.

The Relax, Renew, Revive package includes:

- Two 50-minute spa treatments
- Lunch for two at the spa
- Healthy breakfast daily for two
- Beach cabana for the day with treats (bottled water and fresh whole fruit)
